What is RPL?

RPL assesses current skills and knowledge against unit(s) of competency within a qualification. The skills and knowledge may be gained through formal or informal learning activities. Skills and knowledge are gained through:

- Work experience (i.e., on the job learning, networking, volunteering);
- Study (such as training courses and professional development); and
- Life experiences.

These learning opportunities can contribute to an individual's current abilities to enable formal recognition of a nationally recognised qualification / unit of competency.

Who is eligible?

To be eligible and for us to consider a candidate's application, the candidate must provide the following evidences along with a filled application form: 1. Minimum 2 years of job experience in the industry with previous experience and qualification gained for any trades like carpentry or bricklaying and 3-4 years with no trade experience and qualifications, supported by a current CV and other relevant documents as listed below: a) CV / Resume; b) Any licenses if applicable; c) Previously completed qualification certificates and transcripts; d) Overseas qualification and transcripts, if relevant; e) Employer's Letter of employment; f) If business owned by the candidate, an ABN registration copy; g) A supervisor's letter acknowledging their experience in the job and the industry; 2. A declaration of a nominated third-party supervisor, who will work along the candidate to support their RPL process. A third-party supervisor could be a colleague, a manager or a supervisor at your workplace. 3. At least 2 referees, not including the third-party supervisor. You also have to minimum 25 years and above to be considered for your RPL process.

Potential Candidates must fill out the RPL application form with the above evidence and submit it to Frontier via email to enrolment@frontier.edu.au. Once the application is processed, the candidate will receive an initial self-assessment document in which they are required to select the type of evidence that they can provide for each unit of competency. As soon as the candidate submits the initial self-assessment, the administration team will forward the document along with the evidence provided to a qualified Trainer who will evaluate it and contact the candidate. The Trainer and Assessor will provide the candidate with an RPL initial evaluation report outlining the next steps they will have to take. If the candidate is dissatisfied with the outcome of the RPL application, they have the right to appeal the decision. For more details on the outcome appeal process, please read Frontier's Student Support Policy and Procedure and Frontier's Complaint and Appeal Policy and Procedure. Both policies can be found at <https://frontier.edu.au/policies-2/>.

Pre-Eligibility Checking procedure

Frontier will conduct the basic eligibility checklist to meet the above requirements. Upon confirmation, learners are required to undertake an LLN test followed by a pre-training review. The sole objective of the LLN test and pre-training review is to determine the learner's need and the end goal to form the course. If the learner has previously achieved any qualification that is equivalent to the AQF level of this qualification or above and can provide evidence, would be exempted from LLN test.

Language, literacy and numeracy

Applicants must undertake a language, literacy and numeracy assessment during their induction session prior to beginning the qualification. Results will be assessed on an individual level by the assessor.

Depending upon the level of support required for the language, literacy or numeracy an alternative training and assessment methods may be used or the learners will be recommended to pursue Foundation Skills program, which will help them fulfil the LLN gap and achieve the qualification.

- Frontier Training and Technology staff will review the applicant's language, literacy and numeracy skills during the application process with writing tasks and one-on-one interviews. For more information refer to Frontier's Enrolment Policy.
- If the review determines the applicant would benefit from a thorough language, literacy and numeracy skill assessment, carried out by a trained assessor with expert knowledge of the Australian

Core Skills Framework, Frontier staff will discuss further options with the applicant as outlined in Frontier's Enrolment Policy.

- The initial LLN test will determine the Learner's ACSF level against the ACSF entry level requirement for each LLN focus area relevant to the qualification. Below is the table that outlines the entry LLN ACSF level expected from a learner to undertake training and assessment for the qualification: Please refer to our Student Support Policy for more information: <https://frontier.edu.au/policies-2/>

Pre-training Review

A pre-training interview would be conducted with the applicant by a Frontier representative. This interview will help us identify your prior experience, existing knowledge, skills, and suitability for the course. Pre-Training Review will be valuable in determining additional support and/or reasonable adjustment required for you to successfully complete the course.

For each eligible individual, Frontier will conduct a Pre-Training Review of current competencies including literacy and numeracy skills prior to enrolment in training. The Pre-Training Review will:

Part A: Learner Profile

Part A is to determine a general understanding of his current work experience and learner's reason for undertaking the course.

Part B: Training Need Analysis

Part B determines the learner's preferred learning style, preferred method of delivery, RPL and credit transfer options if applicable and any special needs for reasonable adjustment.

Part C: Digital Literacy

As the RPL pathway and many of our courses are delivered and assessed by distance or online mediums, digital literacy enables us to know whether a learner can and to what extent use digital mediums for undertaking their assessments, training delivery and other communications.

Part D: Learners applying for licensing or skill assessment

Many of Frontier's trade qualifications have state specific elective unit's preferences. Frontier through part D identifies learners' learning outcome. If a learner's need for further licensing or skill assessment as learning outcome, Frontier makes aware to our learner's state regulatory requirements and provides them an opportunity to select the elective units as per the state regulatory elective unit of competencies requirements.

Learners are provided with a Pre-Training review questionnaire which they have to complete and submit prior to commencement. The Trainer and Assessor is responsible to review the Pre-Training review questionnaire and provide with necessary feedback and recommendation to adopt a learning and assessment strategy that is best suitable for the learner adhering to the qualification's requirement.

Who are eligible as Referees to assess your skill and knowledge?

The applicant must provide details of three referees on the application form. Out of the three, one of the referees, the 'Testimonial Referee', must be a supervisor, and the other two, the 'Nominated Referees', will be contacted by the Assessor for reference check. One of the 'Nominated Referees' should be able to provide the candidate with a 'Third-Party Report', and they must be in a position to verify the applicant's skills and knowledge and to validate the candidate's working period with the company. An explanation of the type of referees are detailed below:

Testimonial Referee: A testimonial referee can be an employer, a supervisor or a manager. They should be able to provide the candidate with a testimonial letter declaring that they have known them for more than 1 year and declare that they have sufficient job experience to meet the qualification requirements. The testimonial referee must also outline how the qualification will benefit the candidate and the job role at their workplace.

Nominated Referee: There should be two nominated referees in the form. A nominated referee can be a colleague, a supervisor or a manager who has worked with the candidate and can assess their skills and knowledge relevant to each unit of competency. The two nominated referees are the ones who will be contacted for reference check. One of the nominated referees has to provide a detailed Third-Party Report for each Unit of Competency.

The RPL Stages

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is an assessment pathway to gain a qualification when a candidate believes that they have the skills, knowledge and experience gained through work, training courses and work-based training to meet the requirements of the course. The evidence they provide will be assessed against the evidence requirements of one or more units of competency. The RPL process shortens the course duration, but it has its own structure to assess students' competency against units of competency. There are six stages involved in the RPL process, however, it is upon the Trainer & Assessor's discretion to determine and select the steps that students will need to complete. The more evidence provided by students at the beginning during the 'Initial RPL Self-Assessment', the lesser steps the RPL process will involve.

Please note that any training courses, work-based training, skills, knowledge and experience gained through work must have been gained in a legal manner to be able to be recognised for RPL.

The stages as key assessment methods involved in the RPL include:

The stages involved in the RPL process include:

Step 1 and 2: Initial Self-Assessment and Evidence Gathering

During this initial stage, the candidate is provided with an 'Initial Self-Assessment' document or link where they are required to select the type of evidence that they can provide for each unit of competency. For each unit of competency, a candidate must provide all mandatory evidence and at least one optional piece of evidence listed in the options. The candidate will have to gather the listed evidence and submit them in the next stage: 'Stage 2-Evidence Gathering Assessment'.

Collecting evidence and privacy

Students will need to advise Frontier prior if there is any limitation on privacy that restricts them from providing any work samples. Frontier would undertake consent from the learner prior to the RPL process to ensure:

- Permission has been obtained (Privacy Laws enforce the need to gain permission from your organisation and the client) to use the evidence.
- Removing sensitive names and figures and marking documents as “confidential” and “not to be photocopied or scanned”.

Note under the relevant Acts and privacy policies of organisations, if there is confidential information that cannot be included as work samples, the Assessor will discuss alternative assessment methods.

Upon assessing the candidate's supplied evidence, a qualified Trainer & Assessor will provide an outcome by completing the 'RPL Initial Evaluation Report' outlining the next steps they will have to take. The next four stages are explained in details below:

Stage 3: Interview

This stage is a compulsory stage for all candidates and it is conducted after the 'RPL Initial Evaluation Report'. Candidates are required to book a time and date with their trainer and assessor for a one-on-one interview, where the assessor will ask the candidates several questions relevant to the units of competencies of the qualification, they are undertaking RPL. If the candidate cannot make time to come and see the trainer and assessor in person, the interview can be conducted through Skype, Google Meet, Microsoft Teams or over the phone, whichever is suitable, discussed and agreed by candidate and the trainer and assessor. Administration will support the Trainer and Assessor with the communication. The trainer and assessor can record the candidate's answers in written format on the 'Stage 3: Interview Questions' template or a voice recording. The candidate must be informed they will be recorded and must agree to do so.

The candidate's personal information is protected by our Privacy Policy and will remain safe and secured. The information will be used only for assessment judgement and might be shared with Government authorities when requested.

Stage 4: Third Party Report

Stage 4 is applicable to candidates that have failed to submit all the mandatory evidence and at least one optional evidence listed for each unit of competency. At this stage, the candidate's third-party supervisor must submit a third-party report using their respective templates of the units of competency mentioned in the assessor's 'RPL Initial Evaluation Report'. The candidate's supervisor/ Third Party Referee must provide comments for each item on the checklist for each unit of competency outlining if the candidate's performance is valid, current and sufficient to demonstrate competency in each unit.

Stage 5: Assessment Tasks

Stage 5 will be applicable to candidates that have failed to submit at least 40% of the mandatory evidence and at least one optional evidence listed for each unit of competency. Candidates may be asked to complete Written Q & A relevant to the selected unit of competency which lacks sufficient evidence or the assessor may ask candidates to practically demonstrate specific tasks relevant to the unit of competency that lacks sufficient evidence. The latter can be done through Skype, GoToMeeting or in person. It is the Assessor's discretion to decide which task the learner needs to complete from the Assessment booklet.

Stage 6: Gap Training

Stage 6 will be applicable to candidates that have failed to submit any of the mandatory evidence and at least one optional evidence listed for each unit of competency. At times, this stage might be recommended towards the end of the process if the assessor determines that the gathered evidence has failed to meet the unit of competency requirements. At this stage, an applicant must complete all assessments from the assessment booklet. Learners who submit the third-party report during the Third-Party Report Stage may not have to repeat the Third-Party evidence gathering task in the assessment booklet.

Situation where Gap Training and Assessment is identified, The Assessor creates a Training and Assessment plan based on the nominal hours of the unit of competency selected for gap Training and Assessment on mutual arrangement. The Gap Training could be conducted at Frontier's campuses or at the learner's workplace or via any virtual online medium authorised by Frontier.
